THE 1978 NORTHWEST REGIONAL FOLKLIFE FESTIVAL

This Memorial Day Weekend, like the past four or five, KRAB will pull together piles of electronic gear from wherever it can, in order to bring to you, live from the Seattle Center, the 1978 Northwest Regional Folklife Festival. You'll hear fiddlers and bluegrass bands, singers and hummers, drummers and gospel groups, (perhaps) a liar or three, and a parade.

The schedule is something like this:

Friday, May 26, 8pm-11pm: From the Playhouse, a special KRAB concert (see May 26 in this Program Guide for a list of performers).

Saturday, noon-8pm: From the KRAB stage.
8pm-11pm: From the Playhouse, a concert of old time fiddle music.

Sunday, noon-8pm: From the KRAB stage.
8pm-11pm: From the Playhouse, a concert of Non-Western traditional music.
11pm-.... A singers extravaganza, hosted by Rika Ruebsaat and Jon Bartlett, of the Vancouver Folksong Society.

Monday, noon-8pm: From the KRAB stage
8pm-11pm: From the Playhouse, a concert of contemporary folk and blues.

Weather permitting, the KRAB stage will be outside the Alki Room, underneath the trees. Come and join us if you can. When you cannot, listen and enjoy.

PROGRAM NOTES

Besides our annual broadcast of the Folklife Festival, KRAB will bring you a number of special concerts recently recorded in Seattle, including one with the popular Chilean folk group Inti-Ilimani, in exile since the military coup in 1973; another by the South Indian classical vocalist T. Brinda; tapes from the 1978 American Old Time Music Festival, with the Strange Creek Trio, Trio Lydia Mendoza, and Sweet Honey in the Rock; and the Seattle Composers and Improvisors Orchestra. On Tuesday Night Live members of the Washington Old-Time Fiddlers Association and vocalist Margaret Russell make appearances.

Also, May 3 is SUN DAY, an international day set aside for education on solar energy. In addition to the special programming on SUN DAY there are several programs on both solar and other energy issues on KRAB this month, including Roger Harpel on "Solar Legislation," a speech by John Berger, author of Nuclear Power: the Unviable Option, and Harvey Wasserman on the history of the anti-nuke movement. Also, Lewis County Crabshell speaks about three new proposed nuclear sites, and there is also a fascinating WashPIRG sponsored debate called "Hanford, Washington: U.S.'s Radioactive Graveyard?" Sidney Lens, author of The Day Before Doomsday speaks on the history of U.S. nuclear weapon strategy.

May 21-28 is Rape Awareness Week, and a number of programs are being aired on KRAB by various local organizations, in order to increase community awareness of sexual assault.

A few of the other programs which may interest you are Margaret Hollenbach's interview with the San Francisco Mine Troupe; microbiologist Dr. Rene Dubos' John Danz lecture series; Ronni Gilboa's report on Initiative 13 and gay rights; a fascinating series on the frontiers of aging broadcast Tuesday afternoons; Eric Hummel's new science news and commentary; Scott Wilson's exploration of protests of UW investment policy in South Africa; Adam Woog's aural documentaries of "Seattle Soundscapes;" Phil Andrus' "From Port to Port Aboard the Steamboat Virginia V;" Francis Moore Lappe's talk on the politics of hunger; dramatizations of tenant/landlord confrontations; plus more regular and irregularities you can discover as you scan this month's guide.

Friday 12

6:00 EARLY MUSIC

All week Stu Witmer has been playing the music, but today it's request morning. Give him a call at 325-5110. BBC Radio New at 7:00.

10:00 MORNING READING

Reclining in her bath with a stiffish brandy-and-soda, Marg Parsons reads W. Somerset Maugham's famous stories about Ashenden, the spy.

10:30 KRABJAZZ

With Jubal Cantando.

2:00 THE LOWER DEPTHS: TO BE CONTINUED

A conversation with Charlemagne Palestine, a New York pianist and artist who is fascinated with the creation of works of epic proportions. Examples of his work are utilized and explained. Palestine works with extremely long, slowly shifting patterns of sound, creating megalomaniacal, but exquisitely lovely, overtones and rhythmic cycles. Herein, he explains why he uses only Boesendorfer pianos ("the Rolls Royce of Pianos"), and why pinball calms him down. Recorded in April and produced by Adam Woog.

4:00 THE FOLKSHOW

Frankie Armstrong! Frankie who? A whole show of this amazing English woman and her singing. Taped at a concert in Auburn. Plus, a houseboat interview with her, conducted by Margo Murphy.

Community news, events and issues brought to you by the organizations involved in those issues. Produced by Live Without Trident.

8:00 INTI-ILLIMANI IN CONCERT

Formed in 1967, Inti Illimani was once one of Chile's most popular folk groups. They have been in exile in Rome since the Chilean military coup of 1973, but have continued to perform all over the world, singing songs of the struggles and hopes of the Chilean people. Their music, based on Indian and peasant folk themes as well as recent compositions of socially committed folk-based songs are played on traditional instruments of Latin America, including the quena--an ancient bamboo flute; the charango--a small, high-pitched guitar made from armadillo shells and the zampona, a set of cane pipes. This concert was recorded in Seattle on April 20th.

9:15 HANFORD, WASHINGTON: U.S.'s RADIOACTIVE GRAVEYARD?

Hanford has been proposed as a permanent, international dumping ground for nuclear wastes. In this debate, sponsored by WashPIRG, Dr. Raul A. Deju of Rockwell Hanford Operations, and Dr. Fred Schmidt, Prof. of Physics, Univ. of Wash., argue for the waste site and for the safety of nuclear power. Dr. Ruth Weiner, of Huxley College and Henry E. Lippek, a Seattle attorney argue against. Produced by Eric Hummel.
